With over 30 years in the Film and TV industry I have worked on virtually everything from Feature films, documentaries, commercials, TV drama series to sport and current affairs.

Over this time I have filmed in over 40 countries and endured some of the harshest work environments possible from the freezing elements of the Antarctic and Himalayas, to the wilds of Africa and I have also enjoyed shooting in some of the most exotic filming locations on the planet.

No matter what and where the job is, I have always been driven by my passion of the industry and the people involved in it.

The variety of projects is one of the key reasons that keeps me so interested and keen in the way I operate, and this is why I have such a broad base of projects on my CV.

Whether shooting a film, series, doco or a lifestyle show, they all have their challenges whilst still being rewarding.

I have worked through a lot of changes in the industry from the days where everything was shot on Film and then to the analogue days, to the now exciting times of digital and the ability to record multi track in the field which has totally changed the industry in a positive way.

This has been a great background for me, giving me a very broad understanding of what is needed to record sound in a myriad of situations and environments
