SHORT BIO:

With a deep love of storytelling and collaboration, Selin Yaman is a highly respected screen producer who has worked across television, film and advertising since the mid 1990s. Selin possesses a unique ability to synthesise her experience to find clarity in complexity and focus in uncertainty. These invaluable skills are applied with humour and compassion in all areas of her work - be it script development, production challenges, project crisis management or competing priorities between stakeholders.

CAREER SUMMARY:

In addition to the producing credits & inhouse roles below, I have worked as a freelance producer, managing business affairs and production across documentary, factual, entertainment and TV commercial projects. I have degrees in Media Studies (RMIT) and Business Administration (AFTRS), have studied Screenwriting (RMIT) and screenplay development (Arista with Film Vic & Script Factory with Screen Australia). I am an alumni of the Rotterdam Producers Lab and a recipient of the Women in Leadership Development grant from the Natalie Miller Fellowship and VicScreen and am in active development on a slate of feature films.
